shero and the The Street Mystery

A six-p

A strange clue appears in the street.
shero: This has to mean something.

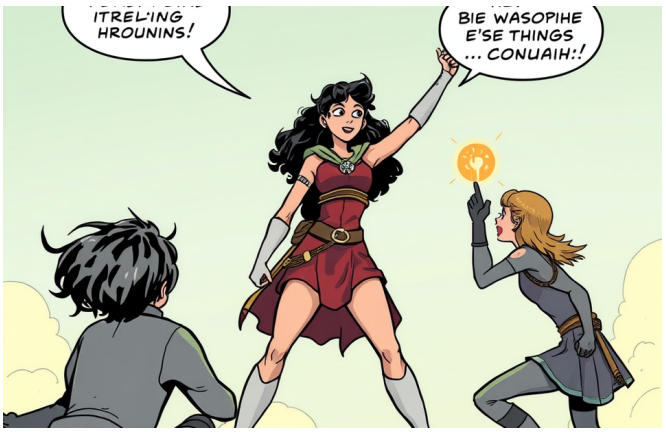

shero follows the clue and discovers the trouble: the dog with tears.
The whole place is counting on me.

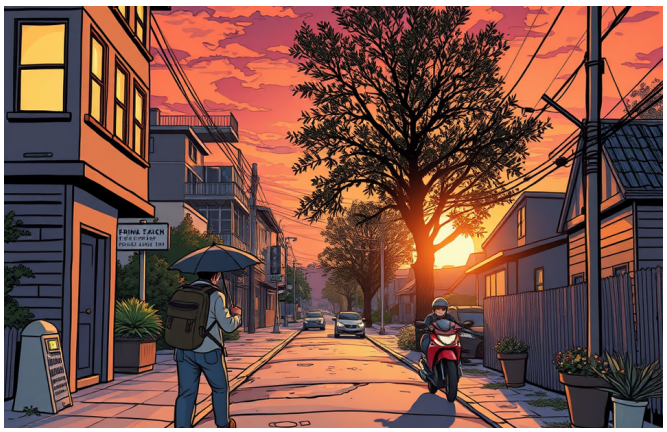

A small ally arrives with one useful idea.
Ally: Try looking at it another way.

The first plan goes sideways, right when it matters most.
shero: Okay. New plan.

shero combines courage and the ally's idea to turn things around.
Ally: You figured it out!

By sunset, the street is safe and a new adventure is already calling.
shero: Let's see where this goes.
